Through an expansion of thought imagination is free
To create any number of different worlds to reflect the Impossible scope of the mind's inner nature seeking
To express the limitless range of human experience:
The more one explores the recesses of the mind
The closer one is to discovering life's hidden truths.
By integrating these insights into everyday life one
Opens the door to a realm of heightened experience
Prying beneath reality's exterior to discover firsthand
That which is veiled from the casual observer's glance:
The awakening of an inner quality some may ignore
As the foreign nature of its song can overwhelm the Mind's rational ability to think along certain lines
Whenever the heart is stirred from its elusive abode
Extinguishing all forms of worry and care, with a tune.